Electoral Register for Berkshire, 1832

Introduction

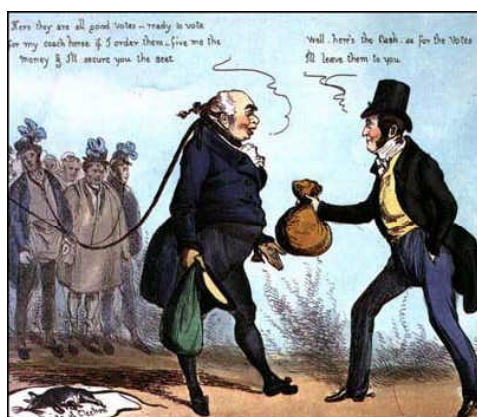

This CD presents a transcript of the first electoral register for the county of Berkshire. Electoral registers or rolls were a creation of the 1832 Representation of the People Act (Will IV c45). Better known as the Great Reform Act. This parliamentary measure made changes to the qualifications for voting and to the constituencies into which the country was divided in order to select the membership of Parliament.

The Great Reform Act

The Great Reform Act of 1832 was one of the most significant pieces of parliamentary legislation ever enacted. It is even said that it prevented a revolution, though it could also be said that it almost started one. For an excellent account of this turbulent period read 'The Age of Reform, 1815-1870' by Sir Llewellyn Woodward, OUP (a volume of the excellent 'Oxford History of England').

The Act is often lauded as the most important step Great Britain took towards true democracy. Certainly it was a major political event removing several sources of political corruption and enfranchising many who had previously been denied the vote. However, the steps taken were not, in themselves, great: the franchise was increased and standardised, but voters were still only a very small minority of the population; constituencies were reorganised on a far fairer basis, but still varied enormously in size; and privileged places such as Oxford and Cambridge Universities continued to return MPs.

In boroughs the situation before 1832 was very confused; voting rights varied from place to place, some boroughs had MPs and some didn't. The 'rotten' boroughs were places which had been important in historical times and hence elected an MP or two – but were, by 1832, often only villages. This was very good news for the few remaining electors who could sell their votes to the highest bidder. Pocket boroughs were those where a single man, usually the owner of the 'borough', effectively appointed the MP; for instance Old Sarum in Wiltshire had declined to a hamlet of three houses but, in the person of the Earl of Caledon, 'elected' two MPs to parliament. Meanwhile major new towns and cities such as Manchester had no MP at all. It was in moving towards a fair rationalisation of this area that the 1832 Act had the greatest impact. But there was still a long way to go, around 40 pocket boroughs survived reform and there were still massive variations in the sizes of constituencies - Wallingford in Berkshire retained an MP elected by fewer than 420 voters while Liverpool's MP had an electorate of over 10,000.

Perhaps the most significant effect of the 1832 Act was that reform was shown to be possible, and that the disastrous consequences of expanding the franchise, predicted by some, failed to materialise. However, disappointment with the Act led to the Chartist movement and further civil unrest. Following the collapse of the Chartist movement in 1848 Parliament slowly came to realise that further reform was necessary and a sequence of further Acts from 1867 steadily satisfied all but one of the Chartists' demands. [Even the keenest follower of politics would be hard pressed to support the idea of annual general elections]. Eventually further reforms extended the electorate even further than the Chartists had envisaged, to women and to younger voters.

Changes to the Franchise

The principle change for those interested in identifying individuals is the decision to create a register of those eligible to vote – the electoral registers. Prior to 1832 there are many extant lists of electors in the form of Poll Books. However, these are lists of those who voted, and those who didn't vote are rarely included, even if they had voting rights.

Another problem with Poll Books is that they were only published after a vote had been taken. It was very common for the competing parties to avoid the cost of an election by agreeing a share out of seats thus negating the need for an expensive election campaign (the candidates had to pay all the costs). Even the 1832 Act made it clear that the candidates were responsible for the costs of erecting polling stations.

Previously voting rights in the Shire or County elections had been limited to freeholders, a rare breed in those times. The increased franchise qualifications were made uniform across the country, but still varied depending upon whether the constituency was a Borough or a County area (see below). The effect in Berkshire was to almost treble the electorate. Those eligible to vote were still very much a minority, but the first steps had been made.

Not all voters lived in the county - a freeholding in Berkshire could qualify a landowner from Yorkshire to vote. Some names in this transcript will appear in several places - ownership of land in three villages means three registrations. A surviving 1832 Poll Book for part of the county, printed after the election, which lists the persons in the electoral roll and adds information as to their voting, shows that persons registered in more than one place voted only once and that the place where they did vote is shown alongside their names in places where they were registered but did not go to vote. Another aspect of the Poll Book is the extremely high turnout, well over 90% of those eligible to vote did so, a far cry from modern trends in voting.

Borough and County

Four of Berkshire's boroughs returned their own MPs: Abingdon, Reading, Wallingford and Windsor. The 1832 Act removed one of Wallingford's two seats, Abingdon kept its single seat, while Reading and Windsor retained two seats each. In addition a further three MPs were returned for the County or Shire (one more than before the Act). This Electoral Roll for Berkshire refers to the County or Shire constituency, but does include many voters in the above Boroughs who had rights to vote in the County election (see below). No 1832 Electoral Rolls appear to survive for the Borough electorates, but Poll Books are available for Abingdon (in difficult to decipher handwriting) and Wallingford (printed and including a list of those who did not vote). These detail who voted for whom; as does a surviving Poll Book for the County District 2 (Reading and surrounding places). All are held by the Berkshire Record Office.

TO THE

Freeholders

BERKS

VOTES in the House of Commons are better criterions of a man's conduct than assertions out of it.

Mr. PALMER voted for transferring the Franchise from East Retford to Birmingham.

Mr. PALMER voted for the Second Reading of the Reform Bill, thereby admitting the principle.

Mr. PALMER gave notice that, in the Committee on that Bill, he would introduce a Clause, compelling the Candidates at all Elections to take the Bribery Oath as well as the Electors; thereby shewing himself a real enemy to corruption.

Mr. PALMER voted for General Gascoyne's motion, because (as he himself avowed) he considered it dangerous to the Institutions of the country to give an undue preponderance to the Irish Representation in the House of Commons, and not with any intention of defeating the Bill.

Mr. PALMER voted for the appointment of a Committee to examine into the CIVIL LIST, the Motion which turned out the late Administration.

Mr. PALMER joined in the recommendation of the Committee for a Reduction in the CIVIL LIST amounting to £12,000 per Annum—a Recommendation which was REJECTED by the present Ministers, the pledged promoters of economy and retrenchment.

MR. PALMER HAS SUPPORTED EVERY MOTION FOR ENQUIRY INTO THE DISTRESSED STATE OF THE COUNTRY.

Mr. PALMER voted AGAINST THE LATE GOVERNMENT when they proposed to give Retiring Pensions to Mr. Bathurst and Mr. Dundas, sons of Cabinet Ministers.

Mr. PALMER supported the motion for a Committee to inquire into the expenditure at Windsor Castle, and against the wasteful expenditure at Buckingham House.

FREEHOLDERS,---With these proofs of his independent conduct before you, will you reject your late tried and upright representative for a gentleman who has as yet established no claim to your confidence and support.

AN OBSERVER.

W. W. LUCY, PRINTER, POST-OFFICE, MARLBOROUGH.

The Election

Left is a poster singing the praises of Robert Palmer one of the candidates and sitting MP since 1821 (courtesy Berkshire Record Office). As can be seen from his list of 'accomplishments', Palmer, a Tory, was doing his best to show that he was in favour of reform and to distance himself from the general view of his party. He could obviously sense the mood of the electorate. The Tories' resistance to the Reform Act, which had led to a constitutional crisis was rejected by the 1832 electorate with a resounding victory for the Whigs. At the time this must have seemed a disaster of unparalleled magnitude to the Tories. In fact it pushed forward a giant step towards the party politics we know today. Robert Peel became the new Tory leader and soon dropped the tarnished name in favour of 'The Conservative Party' following his Tamworth Manifesto of 1834.

In Berkshire there were four candidates for the three available seats, two Tories and two Whigs. Voters could vote for three candidates. In a very close election Palmer topped the poll with 2,942 votes. Second was a Whig, Robert Throckmorton with 2,774 votes followed by the third successful candidate, another Whig, John Walter with 2,479 votes. The unsuccessful candidate was the second Tory, Philip Pusey with 2,440 votes.

In the next election of 1835 Throckmorton did not stand and so Palmer, Walter and Pusey were elected unopposed and no vote was required, similar circumstances meant that no vote was required in 1841 or 1847 but 1837 saw a landslide with three Conservative candidates elected, each polling almost double the vote of the sole Liberal candidate..

Voting Qualifications

In order to qualify for a vote and hence inclusion in this 1832 register a person had to be:

A male aged 21 or over and able to satisfy at least one of the following criteria:

- (a) a holder of real property (copyhold or leasehold) worth at least £10
- (b) an occupier as tenant of land or tenements paying rent of £50 or more per annum
- (c) someone qualified to vote under the previous system and still in possession of the property that gave that entitlement.

In a Borough elections the difference was in the nature of property holding; (a) and (b) above were replaced by a single qualification requirement; to own or rent a property of £10 or more annual value. There was one additional requirement - the voter had to live within seven miles of the Borough.

Borough freeholders could vote in the counties if their freehold was between 40 shillings and £10, or if it was over £10 and occupied by a tenant.

There were also a number of reasons for excluding a person from voting:

- those whose name is, for whatever reason, not on the register
- aliens, peers, lunatics, policemen, postmasters
- election agents and others paid to help at elections
- this in receipt of public alms
- commissioners and collectors of government revenues
- anyone convicted of bribery at a public election (for 5 years following the conviction)
- anyone serving a prison sentence.

The Electoral Register

The Electoral Register is a list of those qualified to vote in the constituency. The existence of an Electoral Register for a particular year does not imply that an election took place that year, though this was the case in 1832.

From 1832 the Electoral Registers were kept up to date on an annual basis. Registers for Berkshire held by the Berkshire Record Office are sparse for the very early years, 1832 is followed by 1839 (plus a small portion from 1834). However from 1839 very few years are missing.

Organisation of the Electoral Register

In 1832 the principal local governance sub-divisions within Berkshire were the Hundreds. The 1832 register is printed, in general, alphabetically by Hundred, Place and Name. However, there are a few instances where the alphabetical ordering is not perfect.

The table below shows the Hundreds in Berkshire in 1832 and the page of the Roll on which they start:

Beynhurst	1	Ganfield	47	Ripplesmere	107
Bray	4	Horner	51	Shrivenham	115
Charlton	10	Kintbury Eagle	58	Sonning	121
Compton	17	Lambourn	68	Theale	129
Cookham	19	Moreton	70	Wantage	135
Faircross	27	Ock	79	Wargave	143
Faringdon	42	Reading	87

The organisation of Hundreds varied over the years; hence this list from 1832 is not the same as that found in the Domesday Book of 1086. However, it is the same as that used for the census of 1841.

The following table shows, in alphabetical order, the places listed in the Roll and the Hundred in which they are to be found. Spellings are as shown in the Roll, many are different from modern usage.

Using the CD

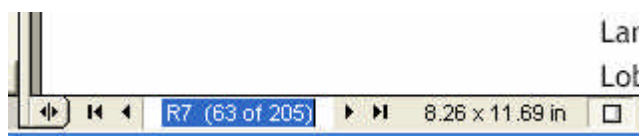

The information on the CD is presented in Adobe Acrobat form and bookmarking has been used to ensure that location of the entry of interest is straightforward. Bookmarks guide the user to the index or transcript and within these further bookmarks speed access to specific areas.

Searching to find a particular entry can readily be accomplished using Acrobat's find feature (Control F or the binoculars icon). All text in this CD is fully searchable in this fashion.

The Index

To aid the user looking for specific individuals a name index is supplied on this CD. Names are arranged alphabetically by surname and forename. Each entry refers to the page number of the original book on which the name is to be found. These page numbers are shown at the top right of each page of the transcript. They are bookmarked within the Roll every ten pages.

The page can be also be located by typing R followed by the page number and Return (↵) into the page number box in the navigation bar at the bottom of the Acrobat window (see screen shot). Make sure the entire box content is highlighted (as in the screen shot) before typing – clicking on the numbering to the left of the bracketed numbers will select the entire contents.

Within the Index bookmarks are provided for each letter of the alphabet, which will take the user straight to the index page on which names starting with that letter are first shown.

The Transcript

The Transcript shows the Electoral Roll in the order it is printed, each page of the Roll being reproduced on a page of the Transcript. In the original each person within a place is numbered sequentially from 1. This numbering is not reproduced.

Bookmarks are provided every ten pages as well as for the first page of each Hundred and the first page for each Place. Modern place name spellings are used in the bookmarks, there are may differ from those in the Roll or the table above.

In general places beginning with West, East, Little, Great etc. are bookmarked under the first part of the name; so look for East Ilsley under E not I.
