Poll Book for Berkshire, 1812

Introduction

This CD presents a transcript of the poll book identifying the voters for the 'Knights of the Shires' in the General Election of 1812.

'Knights of the Shires' is a term applied to the Members of Parliament who sat for the County of Berkshire as opposed to those members representing boroughs or other places privileged to select their own MPs. In Berkshire there were two MPs for the Shire, two each for Windsor, Reading and Wallingford and one for Abingdon. The elections in the boroughs are not detailed in this poll book, although many residents of the above boroughs were entitled to vote for the Shire MPs and hence are listed.

This is not a list of those entitled to vote, but a list of those who did vote. It includes details of who voted for whom - there was no secret ballot in those days.

The year in which this election took place was an eventful one. Britain was at war with Napoleon's French empire, though the destruction of the main imperial army by the Russian winter presaged the end of a conflict that had already lasted over 20 years. The British Army was in action in Spain in the Peninsular War.

1812 also saw war with the USA; tired of British interference with American shipping the United States declared war and met with early success against the Royal Navy.

At home Prime Minister, Spencer Perceval, was assassinated in the House of Commons lobby and the King, George III, was insane.

The Election

Who could vote?

Voting rights in the Shire or County elections was limited to freeholders; consequently the electorate was small. Voters could vote for more than one candidate. In the Berkshire election two members were elected to parliament so each elector could, if they wished, choose two of the available candidates. Of course voters could also qualify to vote again in one of the boroughs.

To Poll or not to Poll?

In contrast to modern elections the call to vote was in fact a rarity. In most elections the candidates or their parties decided in advance who was to represent which area and ensured that the number of candidates matched the seats available, doing away with the need for an election. This was very obviously not democracy, as we know it. But the cost of elections was borne by the candidates and their supporters; if an MP had to defend his seat at every general election it could quickly lead to bankruptcy.

However, there were occasions when the status quo was challenged and a vote was required. This became ever more likely as the fervour for political reform grew in the early 19th century resulting in the Great Reform Act of 1832.

The Candidates

The dominant political figure in Berkshire during this period was Charles Dundas of Barton Court, Kintbury; he represented the Shire as an MP from 1794 to 1832. Prior to this he sat as MP for the borough of Richmond (1774) and for Orkney and Shetland (1781-4). Although he was returned to Parliament from Berkshire no less than 10 times, he only had to fight elections in 1796, 1812, 1818 and 1820. He was originally adopted as member for Berkshire in 1794 to replace Winchcombe Henry Hartley (a descendent of Jack of Newbury) who died in office; there was no by-election needed. By 1832 he was an old man and he accepted a peerage as 'Baron Amesbury of Kintbury, Amesbury and Barton Court, in the County of Berks, and of Aston Hall, in the County of Flint'. On his formal introduction to the House of Lords he was presented by Baron Braybrooke. Dundas was very active in the west of Berkshire and was pivotal in the development of the Speenhamland system of poor relief, but is chiefly remembered for his part in the development of the Kennet and Avon canal linking Newbury to Bath. A tunnel and aqueduct on this canal both bear his name.

The second candidate was Richard Neville. Born at Stanlake in the parish of Hurst, he succeeded to the title of Baron Braybrooke in 1825 and later presented the new Baron Amesbury to the House of Lords. At the time of the election the family seat was at Billingbear Park near Wokingham he later inherited Audley End in Essex and moved there. He is mainly remembered for his role as editor of the first publication of Samuel Pepys' 'Diary' in 1825. He was standing for Berkshire for the first time in 1812 replacing George Vansittart with whom Dundas had been 'elected' without a poll at the previous three general elections. He had previously served as a member for Thirsk (1805-6), Saltash (1807) and Buckingham (1807-12). He served as MP until his elevation to the peerage in 1825.

Standing against Dundas and Neville was a third candidate, William Hallett. Hallett was a reform candidate standing, for the second time, in support of the expansion of the electorate and the removal of the grossly undemocratic rotten boroughs. Hallett was from Faringdon in the north of the county but had built, in 1810, a house at Denford; very close to Dundas' Barton Court. He is also remembered, together with his wife, as the subject of Gainsborough's painting 'A Morning Walk', now in the collection of the National Gallery, London.

Political Parties

The main political groupings of the day were the Tories and the Whigs. Very broadly speaking these grew out of the supporters of the Stuart succession (Tories) and those supporting the Hanoverian succession (Whigs). By 1812 this distinction was no longer the great issue, members were far more independent than today, or seemingly so. Modern party organisation had yet to emerge and the government of the day would be formed out of a coalition of members with common interests; these tended to be predominately Tory or Whig but there are many instances of senior figures featuring in successive governments of differing hue. However, despite their freedom from a party whip they were often appointed to parliament by the owner of a rotten borough and were there to serve their patron's interests.

Patronage

In Berkshire the boroughs of Wallingford and New Windsor were in the pockets of rich patrons. In his book 'An entire and complete history, political and personal, of the boroughs of Great Britain' in 1792, Thomas Oldfield declined to name the patron at Windsor:

"The patron of this borough cannot with propriety be named, lest we might incur the rebuke of royalty."

He was less constrained when discussing Wallingford:

“Although this borough is not under the immediate influence of any nobleman or opulent commoner. The highest bidder is always chosen. No other influence is known to prevail there, except that of the nabob, Sir Francis Sykes.”

Abingdon and Reading had, as Oldfield put it, “not yet been subjected to the arbitrary influence of any opulent individual.”

Regarding the shire Oldfield writes:

“The interest of Lord Craven has generally sufficient weight to influence the election of one representative: the other depends on the attachments of a few of the leading property in the county to the ministry or opposition of the time being.”

Reform, or resistance to it, was to be the downfall of the Tories. In 1832 they lost humiliatingly in a general election in which the one issue was the proposed Reform Act. Out of the ashes of the Tory party Robert Peel was to build a new Conservative party, but that is another story.

The Election Starts

The process of the election started in Reading on Thursday October 8th, as the Times reported the following Monday:

“The Election for Berkshire was held at Reading on Thursday last, when a violent popular tumult ensued, which continued for three hours, when the Sherriffs declared that Mr Dundas and Mr Hallett had been nominated by a majority; and that a poll would be taken for Mr Neville at Abingdon.”

This wording meant that Dundas and Hallett had the most nominations but that the existence of a third candidate (Neville) meant that the voters would have their say. In other years there would only be two candidates who would be returned to parliament without a poll; the election would be no more than a meeting such as that held in Reading. Indeed the Times was already reporting the names of successful candidates from non-contested seats. Despite it being Neville's name that is attached to the decision to have a poll it was Hallett whose presence upset the smooth succession of the previous uncontested elections in 1802, 1806 and 1807. He tried again in 1818 and 1820, each time forcing a poll and coming a distant third.

Many of the public would welcome a poll; it meant good trade for the merchants and innkeepers of Abingdon and for those offering a means of transport to and from the polling station. It also meant parties and much activity through the county as the candidates attempted to influence the voters; even those without a vote could enjoy the hustings. Those with a vote could revel in the attentions of the candidates and their supporters and perhaps come out of the process showing a profit.

The ‘tumult’ described by the Times was caused by the refusal of the High Sheriff, who was chairing the meeting, to adjourn it to the Forbury. Traditionally these gatherings were taken from the town hall to the open air space known as the Forbury, where many more could be part of the proceedings. The High Sheriff also refused to take votes on further two proposals to go to the Forbury. The crowd were incensed and the noise was such that none of the speeches by the candidates and their friends could be heard.

Polling

The polling took place over a period of 17 days, from the 12th to the 28th of October (excluding Sundays). Voters often had to travel some distance to the polling station, in this case votes had to be registered in Abingdon (then the county town of Berkshire but now in Oxfordshire). A trip to Abingdon before the arrival of the railways was very inconvenient for those living in the more distant parts of the county. It is clear that many did not make the effort despite being qualified to vote; a comparison with the poll in 1818 shows large variations in who voted from where, far more than could be explained by changes in land ownership over six years. Some villages appear in 1818 that do not appear in 1812 and vice versa.

The votes were counted each day and a running total was kept; this was reported several times in the Times.

On Friday 16th October the state of the vote after three days was reported as: Dundas 658, Neville 402 and Hallett 149. Below this short report was a commentary on the election in Bristol:

“The contest may now be considered as over: Sir S Romilly has resigned, and Bristol is degraded in the estimation of all who glory in the envied name of Englishmen. Though corruption and commercial influence have gained the victory over honest patriotism and independence ...”

In the Reading Mercury and Oxford Gazette of October 26th Hallett writes to appeal to voters to turn out in his support - stating “As there still remain two thirds of the Freeholders who have not Polled, ...”. This letter was written on October 23rd by which time almost 2,992 of the 3,616 votes had been cast (it is not possible to accurately relate this to the number of voters who had polled by then as many cast only one of the two votes available to them). If Hallett was correct then the turn out cannot have been much more than 50% of the electorate.

On the 28th of October the paper reported the totals as of the 26th: Dundas 1,391, Neville 1,295 and Hallett 487. In another contested seat from the same report Sir Hugh H Dalrymple, Bart was elected for the County of Ayr by 56 votes to 54. His opponent, General Montgomery protested that four of his voters had been kept off the poll.

The number of freeholders polled, during the Election, was 1,992.

Other Poll Books

Poll books are also available for the Shire elections in 1727, 1768, 1796, 1818, and 1820.

There are also poll books for various parliamentary elections for the borough seats in Abingdon, Reading, Wallingford and Windsor.

From 1832 the electoral system changed and electoral rolls were generated annually. These are lists of those entitled to vote, unlike the poll books that only list those who voted. Poll books were generated after 1832 but they have not survived as well as the electoral rolls. The Electoral Registers for Berkshire held by the Berkshire Record Office are sparse for the very early years, 1832 is followed by 1839 (plus a small portion from 1834). However from 1839 very few years are missing.

Berkshire Family History Society has published a transcript of the 1832 Electoral Roll and will produce more Poll Books and Electoral Rolls on CD in the future.

Organisation of the Poll Book

The Poll Book is sorted alphabetically by Place and Name. However, there are a few instances where the alphabetical ordering is not perfect. In 1812 the principal local governance subdivisions within Berkshire were the Hundreds, these are shown alongside each place name in the book.

The list below shows the Hundreds in Berkshire in 1812:

Beynhurst	Ganfield	Ripplesmere
Bray	Hormer	Shrivenham
Charlton	Kintbury Eagle	Sonning
Compton	Lambourn	Theale
Cookham	Moreton	Wantage
Faircross	Ock	Wargave
Faringdon	Reading

The organisation of Hundreds varied over the years; hence this list from 1812 is not the same as that found in the Domesday Book of 1086. However, it is the same as that used for the census of 1841.

Places

The table below lists all places from the poll book and the hundred in which they are located. In many cases the spellings differ from modern usage; this may reflect contemporary usage or the ignorance of the clerk(s) recording the poll, probably a mix of the two.

Names

The spelling of names in the transcript follows that used in the poll book. Although this is a list of the more affluent commoners in the county, a group that would be accustomed to attaching their names to many letters, deeds and other records this does not mean that the spellings herein are accurate. The clerk(s) collecting the names may well mishear or misspell and the typesetter of the poll book could easily compound the problem. A comparison with the poll book for the next election in 1818 shows many instances of the same freeholder's name being spelt differently. For example John Joys (1812) becomes John Jay (1818), John Irons (1812) becomes John Hyrons (1818) - both examples from Longworth.

Another aspect of the presentation of names in this poll book is that forenames appear reversed when compared to the 1818 poll book. For example Collins William Badcock in Frilford in 1812 changes to William Collins Badcock in 1818.

Using the CD

The information on the CD is presented in Adobe Acrobat form and bookmarking has been used to ensure that location of the entry of interest is straightforward. Bookmarks guide the user to the index or transcript and within these further bookmarks speed access to specific areas.

Searching to find a particular entry can readily be accomplished using Acrobat's find feature (Control F or the binoculars icon). All text in this CD is fully searchable in this fashion.

The Index

To aid the user looking for specific individuals, a name index is supplied on this CD. Names are arranged alphabetically by surname and forename. Each entry refers to the page number of the original book on which the name is to be found. These page numbers are shown at the top right of each page of the transcript. They are bookmarked within the Roll every ten pages (starting from page 3 - the page of the original where the voter listings start).

The page can also be located by typing R followed by the page number and Return (↵) into the page number box in the navigation bar at the bottom of the Acrobat window (see screen shot). Make sure the entire box content is highlighted (as in the screen shot) before typing - clicking on the numbering to the left of the bracketed numbers will select the entire contents.

Within the Index, bookmarks are provided for each letter of the alphabet, which will take the user straight to the index page on which names starting with that letter are first shown.

The Transcript

Bookmarks (A to Y) are provided to take the user to the first place starting with the bookmark letter.

Places with two word names may be listed in several ways so check all possibilities or use the Acrobat search facility. For example East Ilsley is listed as 'Ilsley, East' in the 'I' section and Church Lambourn as 'Lambourn, Church' in the 'L' section, but Great Coxwell is listed as 'Great Coxwell' in the 'C' section and Sutton Courtney is listed as 'Sutton Courtney' in the 'S' section.

A number of hamlets or sub-divisions of parishes are listed in their own right. If you don't find someone you expect to find in the parish, then consider other places he could be found. For example, someone you believe to come from Sutton Courtney could actually be from Sutton Wick, which has its own listing.

Alongside each entry are three columns headed by D, N & H. Crosses in these columns indicate the votes cast by the individual. D is for Dundas, N for Neville and H for Hallett.
